

On page 7, line 17 please add: An aperture comprising before the sentence beginning "A diecut [transparent cellophane] window . . ."

IN THE CLAIMS:

Please cancel claims 6, 12 and 15.

5. (Once amended) A data card display package for displaying a data card having a magnetic stripe of encoded data and a confidential personal identification number (PIN) printed on a back side, and non-confidential data printed on a front side, [without revealing confidential data disposed on a first side of the data card,] said data card display package comprising:

an opaque paperboard backing having first and second sides [panels], perforations in said paperboard backing defining first and second side [panel] margins, and an aperture formed in said first side [panel];

a transparent layer bonded to said first side [panel] and covering said aperture to form a display window;

[whereby] said first side [panel can] being folded over said data card and onto said second side and bonded along said first and second side margins [panel] to secure said data card there between, [a second side] the front side of the data card remaining visible through the display window [with the confidential data] and the confidential PIN number on the back side of the data card remaining masked from view by said backing;

whereby separation of said perforations in said paperboard backing permits the package to unfold.

7. (Once amended) The data card display package according to claim 5, wherein said aperture is a diecut window disposed in and bordered on three sides by said first side [panel].